Chairman E. Douglas Richardson issued yesterday a call for a meeting of the Council Committee on Electricity to be held at 8 o'clock to-night to hear a report from Engineer E. W. Traford as to his negotiations with the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company, relative to crossing the tracks and canal at the site of the new electric plant.

It is understood that a satisfactory agreement has been reached and a definite contract will be entered into between the city and railway company, by which the city saves the company harmless from all damages accruing from the crossing of the tracks and canal at the site of the new electric plant.

Much pressure is being brought by Broad Street merchants to have the proposed Broad Street lights in place for the holiday season. Traford says there will be no difficulty about the generating plant—that is already all but completed. Delay in the erection of the transmission system will postpone the cutting in of the general system of street lighting until next spring, but Mr. Traford hopes to hasten the transmission wires connecting with the underground service on Broad Street, so as to cut in the end of this month. If approved by the Electricity Committee, the contract with the railway company will be made by the Council next Monday night, and will be concurred in by the Board of Aldermen by Tuesday of the following week.

UNEARLY MASTODON TEETH

Gold Excavation in Alaska Disclosed Mastodon Teeth. Seattle, Wash., November 1.—A hydraulic nozzle, cutting away an ancient gravel bank on the Kolkok River, near Nome, to wash out gold, uncovered a mastodon tooth, the grinders of eight huge animals that roamed over Seward Peninsula when the frozen country was covered with abundant vegetation.

Other bones were found, and the miners hope to come upon the remains of the skeletons. Some of the mastodon teeth were sent to the George Quackenbush of the American Museum of Natural History, New York.

SAFEGUARDING THE BOYS

Subject Is Discussed at Y. M. C. A. Convention. Toronto, November 1.—The best methods to be employed in safeguarding the morals and molding the character of the boys of the continent, taken up at this afternoon's session of the thirty-seventh annual convention of the Y. M. C. A. proved to be one of the most interesting subjects brought up this year. General discussion of the subject was in charge of Seth Sprague Terry, of New York. Dr. Graham Taylor, of Chicago, spoke of saving them from delinquency. Industrialism and the conditions of the social equality bugbear, but I want to say emphatically that nowhere in this country is the negro seeking to trade upon the white race and especially in this so in the South. The more sensible and educated the negro, the more satisfaction he finds in company of people of his own race.

Good will and friendship must be promoted among us in the South," he said, "and the colored race must be tolerated, but will be wanted in every community. Of course, I find many white friends who refrain from helping the negro on account of the social equality bugbear, but I want to say emphatically that nowhere in this country is the negro seeking to trade upon the white race and especially in this so in the South. The more sensible and educated the negro, the more satisfaction he finds in company of people of his own race."

EVIDENCE CONFLICTS

Telegraphers Say There Was Gas in Times Building. Los Angeles, Cal., November 1.—Witnesses in the Times explosion case yesterday testified before a coroner's jury that free gas was present in large volume in the building on the night the explosion occurred. These witnesses, who were telegraph operators in the building, testified that they had lost their positions with the telegraph company because of having made their statements.

Simultaneously with this testimony, witnesses before the special grand jury swore that no odor of gas was detected in the building. The telegraph operators asserted that every body in the telegraph room smelled the gas and remarked about it. Arthur Ball, a linotype operator, declared, however, that if gas in quantity sufficient to cause an explosion had escaped from a defective main, some typesetting machines would have been put out of commission.

FATAL FIGHT OVER BOTTLE OF WHISKEY

Three Arrests Made, and, After Preliminary Hearings, Men Remained Over to Court. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, D. C., November 1.—A telephone call this morning told of a tragedy in Mangum, just across the Pee Dee River, in Richmond county, in which Jack Jarrell shot his life at the hands of one Dennis. Both men worked at the sawmill of Elisha Dunn near Mangum. Dennis is about sixteen years of age, while Jarrell is about twenty-five. The men were drinking and fell out over a bottle of whiskey. Along with several other men they were walking along the road when Jarrell took a pistol from his pocket and shot him down. He then jumped on Jarrell and struck him with a club. Jarrell was arrested soon after the shooting, and he and one of his brothers, and three others, were given a preliminary hearing at Mangum and bound over to court. Biggers and the brothers charged with being accessories to the murder.

MONETARY BOARD MEETING

Call for One on November 10 to Consider Report. Washington, D. C., November 1.—The National Monetary Board will meet in an executive session in New York at the Hotel Plaza on November 10. It will be the first meeting of the commission in several months. Senator Aldrich, its chairman, recently returned from Europe, where he went to gather information for the commission's investigation, and which may be a part of its report.

It is understood that the report which the commission will make to Congress may be the subject of discussion at the meeting. Under the Aldrich-Vreeland act, the commission is charged with working out a new monetary system or plan, and a revision of the Federal Reserve Act. The life of the commission expires by law in 1914.

OFFICERS DESTROY STILL

Entire Outfit Put Out of Commission—No Arrests Made. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, D. C., November 1.—This morning a forty-five-gallon still was captured and destroyed by Deputy Collectors D. C. W. Foster, and J. E. Cameron, of Kingston, within five miles of the town of Aurora, this county. The still, which was used for the manufacture of moonshine, was found in a small building, and was put out of commission by the officers. It was found in the edge of the woods. Several jugs of rum were discovered.

The officers left Aurora yesterday morning about 1 o'clock, and did not locate the still until about noon. They thought that the plant had been in operation since Friday last. It was with difficulty that the still was located. The officers, however, had almost given up their search when a small patch was located.

NEW BRIDGES FOR HENRICO COUNTY

Supervisors Preparing to Condemn Property According to Law.

Through Commonwealth's Attorney Julian Gunn, the Board of Supervisors of Henrico County yesterday presented to Judge Scott a petition asking that certain land belonging to the Virginia Conference Orphanage be condemned by the county for the purpose of erecting bridges at the point where the Broad Street Road crosses the tracks and right-of-way of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad. While there will probably be no opposition on the part of the orphanage, the paper is drawn up, naming the trustees of the institution as defendants, as the law requires in such cases.

In the petition the supervisors called Judge Scott's attention to the fact that the Broad Street Road is becoming more and more popular as a highway, and that the railroad crossing renders it dangerous. The erection of overhead bridges will completely obviate the danger, but in order to build such structures as would be adequate to take care of the travel it will be necessary to condemn a part of the orphanage land.

Sufficient time will be allowed the trustees of the institution to oppose the petition, and after a hearing, if there is any necessity for it, commissioners will be appointed to assess the damages, and the land will be deemed to the county. As soon as practicable after the legal proceedings the Board of Supervisors will award contracts for the building of the bridges.

[Contract for New School. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.)] Henrico, Va., November 1.—The City School Board to-day awarded the contract for a new grammar school building to a firm of Robert, of Richmond, whose bid was $78,000. Work will begin at once.

VOTE FOR William R. Vawter REPUBLICAN NOMINEE FOR CONGRESS, November 8, 1910.

Our candidate this year is a live, wide-awake, progressive business man and farmer. He stands for principles which mean the best possible results to the people of this district. Is it not advisable to elect a man of that type, regardless of the fact that our opponent claims a walkover? The party is said to be stronger than any set of individuals (although that is doubted in Virginia), but the people are stronger than all parties. You are the people. It is up to you. A hint to the wise should be sufficient.

POLITICAL WATERS MUDDIED

Hitchcock Will Remain at Throttle of Party Organization.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, November 1.—Politics and official Washington is on the move, especially that part of it interested in the outcome of the elections next week. President Taft, the members of his Cabinet, bureau chiefs and other high government officials have already made arrangements for their exit from Washington, and it is safe to say that from now until the result is declared next Wednesday, little government business will be transacted here, excepting the most urgent. The G. O. P. ship should be kept sailing, trouble might come to them, several thousand clerks in the various bureaus are now either on their way home working for the Republican cause, or will leave Washington the latter part of the week, to help at their homes when the ballot boxes are opened Tuesday. They have been plainly told that the "bosses" have their eyes upon them, and that it will not be safe to be found around Washington on election day. Hundreds of poor government clerks, who have been told that their salaries are small, have been forced to pay railroad fare to far away points in Missouri, Kansas, Indiana and other Western States, and one man was held up and sent to Wyoming at his own expense for the moral effect on other voters.

In spite of the fact that both former President Roosevelt and President Taft have issued orders from time to time declaring that any government employee found politically active would be dismissed from the service immediately, the Civil Service Commission has practically ignored these executive orders. In a statement just issued to voters, the commission declares that it is the duty of every man to take part in the elections of his State, and that no one who goes home now to perform this duty will be hurt. Not only the fact that the vote is being given, but also the fact that the vote is being given, is the straight G. O. P. ticket. Even the members of the commission themselves are preparing to hang up the sign "Not At Home."

Roosevelt Muddled the Waters. Until two weeks ago there seemed little doubt that New York State would elect Stimson Governor. With that lead the Republicans of the Empire State would get a good start toward a national victory two years hence. But what has happened? Roosevelt got into the fight, taking it here and there, first upon one subject and then another, now for the Western Insurgents and then for the "standpaters," until the country fails to know what he stands for. If any one knows it is only Roosevelt himself. But one thing is certain, that is he has so muddled the waters that the wisest of men is unable to predict the outcome. Any statement now tending to give a line on the result there is the merest guesswork.

All the Big Ones Working. Can Root and Lodge and the other big administration men swing the tide that is fast washing out the props from under the G. O. P.?

While Secretary of State, Elihu Root was considered one of the wisest diplomats the country ever knew—even surpassing the late John Hay and others—but as a political mixer and vote-getter he is a decided failure. He conducted the affairs of State, with diplomatic secrecy in the stock in trade, with the most consummate success, but that called for a different kind of ability than that necessary to be displayed when it is proposed to carry New York State in an election where the vote is close as it is now. Personally Root is cold and formal, and anything but the kind of man to swing a column of voters to the right line.

Lodge Down and Out, Too. Were any one else but Congressman Butler Ames, running against Senator Lodge, he would be counted down and out. True, he has been a power in Massachusetts in time gone by, and is reckoned one of the best Greek scholars the world has produced since the days of Socrates, but in Massachusetts, like all other States, the people demand something else of their people than a knowledge of Greek and the other dead languages—they want to know how Lodge, why he forced the robber tariff on them.

It will thus be seen that with his own head barely above water, the learned Massachusetts statesman is in a sorry plight to help others.

Swapping Horses. Press dispatches sent out from Washington a day or two ago to the effect that immediately after the election next week the administration proposed to reorganize the party and get it in shape for the national campaign are another instance of how the G. O. P. is bluffing. Frank H. Hitchcock, Postmaster-General, and Cabinet members, by the grace of President Taft, are the engineers who will continue to operate the ponderous machine. While it is admitted that there is a need of a general oiling and overhauling, Hitchcock is the man who is to stay at the throttle.

When Boss Cortelyou was at the head of the Post-Office Department he was reckoned the shrewdest politician that Washington had seen in years. There was no point in the game that he did not thoroughly understand, and he played it to perfection. Then came along a young fellow—suave, cunning and astute—who was assistant to Cortelyou, and who finally succeeded the latter. That was the same Postmaster-General Frank Hitchcock. He not only knows all that Cortelyou knew, but, propping by experience, is even a better political manager than his predecessor. Cortelyou knew the game, but Hitchcock knows it still better. When, therefore, the administration discusses the question of putting another engineer at the throttle of the G. O. P. machine those who know, only smile. The idea of swapping horses midway the stream is not even contemplated, but it is just one of those moves set going by the administration in its frantic effort to see how a change would take with the people. The water is shallow, and the change would be a chance to grasp at the straw. Hitchcock will remain the political "boss," and the more the machine gets in the ruck the more he will be in demand. P. H. McG.

DREADNOUGHT LAUNCHED

Occasion Is Made a Gala Event in Japan.

Victoria, B. C., November 1.—According to mail advice here, the Japanese Dreadnought, Kawachi, 20,000 tons, was launched at Yokosuka on October 15, in the presence of the Emperor and 50,000 persons, who made the ceremony a gala occasion, in spite of heavy rain. Thirty warships, in full hunting, saluted the Emperor and his suite when they arrived. Admiral Sakamoto, commander of the Yokosuka Naval Station, knooked away the doghouse, and the huge ship took the water easily, while a flock of liberated pigeons fluttered about and ribbons were thrown into the air.

The Kawachi, like her sister battleship, the Settsu, was launched by the Kure, is an improved Dreadnought. She will be completed in a year and will be armed with twelve twelve-inch guns, and will have a maximum speed of eight and a half knots. She will have five torpedo tubes. A decision has been reached to construct five super-dreadnoughts for Japan's navy within five years, at a cost of $40,000,000.

The Nippon, of Tokio, published an article stating that the proposed fortification of the Panama Canal is directed against Japan.

ODDS AGAINST HER

New York, November 1.—After making a last plea to her husband to return, Mrs. Annie Davis, of Brooklyn, committed suicide, and with her took her two children, Ellis, five years old, and Elsie, three. All were found asphyxiated by gas. For the last two years Mrs. Davis has supported her family by sewing, but finding the struggle a hard one, she wrote a note and turned on the gas. This is the note:

"I am sorry, but this is the easiest way out of it. The children are asleep and won't know anything about it. I just can't fight any longer. The odds are against me."

Booker Washington Declares He Is Not Seeking to Obtrude Upon Whites. Durham, N. C., November 1.—Booker T. Washington, who is touring North Carolina, arrived in Durham yesterday and was the guest of honor at a banquet at night given by the Durham Negro Business Men's League.

The colored editor, in a speech in a public meeting, expressed the belief that the condition of the Southern negro as a laborer was far better than that of the European. The press, he said, accents the crimes of the colored race, but he believed the public was beginning to understand the true conditions.

"The mob and the lynching bee," he added, "go around the world; the deeds of goodness are not heard."

He declared that he has found the world he has visited has found the world between the white and colored races living side by side in such satisfactory relationship as they do in the South.

Alluding to his trip through the South, Washington said that he had been overwhelmed with surprise and
